

Listingbook AI Product Update

February 12, 2014

Listingbook’s development team is pleased to share with you the details on a pair of new features that will make the Listingbook AI experience richer, faster and more efficient for you and your clients!

- Search tab loads quicker: We have changed the way the basic search loads in order to expedite the loading of this page. Now, the search page will no longer pause to automatically load your last search. Instead, the page will load immediately, and the most recent search activity can be accessed by clicking the “Last Search” button (pictured). We have also changed the name of the New Search button to “Clear All,” but the function remains the same – clicking “Clear All” will clear all criteria and fields related to your current search.

- Morning Report for Agents displays an at-a-glance view of your most active clients: Your agent email and online Morning Reports now include a quick view of the most active clients in the system during the previous 24 hours. A new grid at the top of the report shows you the name of the client and indicates their favorites, rejects and views. This will help you become aware, at a glance, of the clients that are becoming active in their home search. A version of this grid view already can be seen in the revised agent Front Page, which was launched in December 2013.

Listingbook’s team is always working to incorporate features and updates that are most demanded by our users. Stay tuned for more information about the latest efforts to enhance the agent and consumer experience!

For immediate assistance on any of the new or updated features, do not hesitate to contact our Listingbook customer support team at 866-353-3456.